I'm going to show you what we've marked as Exhibits 27 and 28 which are the OFAC designation of Al Aqsa Foundation and the Bank of England designation Al Aqsa Foundation both in May of 2008. Here's 27 which is the OFAC designation of Al Aqsa Foundation and 28 which is the Bank of England designation. Keep in front of you that document from Exhibit 35 that identifies the name of the recipient of this transfer, do you see that? You have it in front of you, Mr. Walters, that's good. Look at Exhibit 27 which is the OFAC designation of the Al Aqsa Foundation. Have you ever seen this document before? A. I'm not sure. I think so, yes. Q. Do you see that on the first page under the heading a/k/a's it lists aliases of the Al Aqsa Foundation? A. Yes. Q. Again, you agree with me that the name of the entity that transferred to Interpal does not appear on this Bank of England sanctions list either, correct? MR. BONNER: Objection to form. A. It is recognized and documented that people transferring money don't always use directly the same names if they are trying to cover it up. Q. My question is a little bit different. Actually a lot different. Do you see the name of the transferor to Interpal in the Bank of England designation? MR. BONNER: Objection to form. A. Not a direct match, no. Q. In paragraph 105 of your report you refer to the transferor as rather than by its true name as reflected in the document that you identified for that
